The guarantee of those rights is a matter of contract between the people and the State of California and the United States as of the time that the compact with the United States was agreed upon and adopted by California and the United States; and

F. The People of California, individually, shall have the Unalienable Natural Right to NULLIFY Federal powers not specifically delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the State of California, or the People. The Tenth Amendment of the United States Constitution defines the total scope of federal power as being that which has been delegated by the People of the Several States to the federal government, and all power not delegated to the federal government in the Constitution of the United States is reserved to the States, respectively or to the People themselves. The powers reserved to the People and the State of California are those powers as they were understood at the time that California was admitted to statehood, excluding amendments. The reservation of those powers is a matter of contract between the state and people of California and the United States as of the time that the compact with the United States was agreed upon and adopted by California and the United States;
